

Our "Maison's" Background

L'Aigle d'Or is more than a unique restaurant, it is a Bi-century "Maison". However, doubtless are every guests while visiting us that this "Maison" - will stand for some years once more, since Mister Hervé GILIAMS's children aims to carry the history of l'Aigle d'Or.

From the middle of the 19th century to world war two, the Gruson Family rides l'Aigle d'Or from fathers to sons also. The hotel restaurant's brand awareness was by this time created with its gardens, its lake, its antique rooms, its lunches & its dinners.

In the beginning of the century, Eugene Gruson, also 'city advisor' starts editing postal card with its 'Maison' nicely positioned within the souvenirs cards. Moreover, he has named his court with the French 'Farm' appellation.

In 1937-1938, there is still a Gruson standing as the Mayor advisor but unfortunately not mastering the kitchen of a well-known restaurant. Both existing descendent brothers now own a tobacco shop & grocery store.

In 1945, the property is took over by Mr & Mrs Grimoin who welcomed Madelaine Renaud, Jean Louis Barrault, Pierre Larquey, Jean Richard for a special moovie occasion.

Mr & Mrs GILIAMS have acquired l'Aigle d'Or restaurant in 1969, the business has been lead by their children Herve & Jean Louis GILIAMS. Looking forward for the grand children to take over this 'Maison' full of existence. Plenty are the celebreties whom come to visit us such as, Alain Delon, Lorie, Johnny Halliday, and so on...
